PRICE ONE CENT.

Presentation of "The Evening World" Gold and Diamond G. A. R. Badge.

The Most Popular Old Soldier Fellcitated by His Brooklyn Friends.

If Letter-Carrier William W. Bredie, of the Brooklyn General Post-Office, steps a little quicker and holds his head a little bit higher than usual to-day, his pride will be pardonable. He now wears THE EVENING World G. A. R. gold and diamond badge, voted to him by his friends, as the most pepular G. A. R. veteran in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R., Brooklyn

Early last evening the carriers of the Breoklyn General Post-Office began dropping into the office "dressed in their best suits of clothes." Pretty soon "Bill" Brodie put in an appearance and was cap-tured and carried to Peters's Hall, 361 Ful-Walser A. Smith, James Farrell, John Cain and George I. Tworger, had arranged for an informal but thoroughly enjoyable respection.

Fully 200 friends of Mr. Brodle were present. They chaffed him good-naturedly and congratulated him upon his success in TME EVENING Woald's contest.

Among the gentlemen present were Walter A. Smith, Superintedant of the General Post-Office Clerk of P. O. time clerk: Superinted C

"I have heard it said that the tongue sometimes fails to do its duty when giving utterance to the feelings of the heart; so tonight, in accepting this tribute. I am at a loss to find words to thank you, for to the earriers and clerks and friends of the Post-Office I owe my success as a competitor in The Evening World's G. A. R. Badge Contest.

The Evening World's G. A. R. Badge Contest.

"I shall try to be worthy of your friendship and loyal in my friendship to you in the battles of life."

Mr. Bredie had hardly ceased speaking when "He's a jolly good fellow," lustily sung by every one, filled the room.

Then "three cheers for Bill Brodie" were given, with a tiger. Three more rousers followed for The Evening World, three for U. S. Grant Post and three for Capt. George J. Collins, Brooklyn's new Postmaster, who is Commander of Grant Post and a comrade of Mr. Brodie.

chair and in true collegian fashion asked
this question:

"Who is Bill Brodie ?"

Then another irrepressible stood up on a chair and in true collegian fashion asked this question:
"Who is Bill Brodie?"
The answer came from 200 throats:
"First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen!" with the usual Lroak "at the end.
Then light refreshments were served and there was more music, and Comrade Brodie showed that he could sing as well as make a speech.

It was early this morning when the fes-It was early this morning when the feativities came to a close.

The Evening World G. A. R. badge presented to Mr. Brodie was won by him in the Memorial Day number contest by a very flattering piurality of votes in a very large number of candidates. The badge is the handwork of Mr. E. A. Thrail. 3 Maiden lane. It is a work of art and very costly. It is of regulation sire and pattern, the bar and pendant being of solid gold, set with six valuable diamonds, one at each point of the star and one in the carle's beak in the bar. It has received the highest praise from every weteran who has seen it, and is a choice souvenir for its possessor.

Mr. Murray Will Announce the Result in New York Saturday.

The first overthrow of the arbitrary Porter methods of taking the census of the metropolis, which have been characterized by profound secrecy and tinctured with alleged unfairness, has been accomplished.

The welcome intelligence that the public may receive from Supervisor Murray, as line said: soon as possible, a rough estimate of the number of people in this city, though very late, indicates that public sentiment is more powerful than Mr. Porter.

There remains no doubt that scores of enumerators have shirked their work. Hundreds of families have been skipped by them, and complaints of all kinds have flooded the Census and newspaper offices, telling of the neglectful and disgracefu telling of the neglectin and disgraced in manner in which the population of this city were being enumerated.

The evidence that the enumerators have been skipping people in large numbers becomes stronger every day. Here is a list of residents who complain to the Thr. World that the long looked for census-taker has failed to materialize:

Disgusted Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY. June 18.—When the regular me for taking the census closed Saturday evening thousands of people who lived in the boarding-houses, and scores of business men whose houses were closed during the day, rushed to the papers and made complaints. The indications, so far as the noncommunicative Census Supervisor would disclose them, showed that the population of Ransas City would not exceed 125,000, and might fall below 100,000. This after hansas City's claims of 160,000 population. Supt. Porter yesterday gave orders that the census should be made complete regardless of time. It is estimated from the lists of non-outumerated received in newspaper offices here that 40,000 persons, at the very least, have been missed. The Commercial Club has taken the matter up and the newspapers are united in their demand for a fair count.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, June 18. - The census was most carelessly taken in this city and the population which it will show will undoubtedly be smaller by many thousands than that which Philadelphia really than that which Philadelphia really has. This is naturally a cause of bitter complaint, as the contest for second piace between Philadelphia and Chicago is very close. Among the errors of the census enumerators, it has been discovered that they skipped an entire street. Hancroft—in the upper part of the city, and there have been many complaints from boarding-houses and private residences that they were entirely guored by the enumerators. the enumerators.

The soumerators were selected because of their standing as Republican party workers and many of them were utterly units for the work, it even being said that one or two could not read or write. Many of the coumerators have not yet completed their work.

Solution as Fullon street and Broadolech Tuesday morning, July 10, and of the composition of the compositi mission had to consider and practically determine the character of structure to be built to make their rapid transit system a success.

Heavy engines and cars for a lightning express service are in the minds of the Commissioners, and to accommodate such a much more substautial structure than Jay Gould's spider-legged elevated road must be provided.

This can be done only by an underground or viaduct system, and the conformation of the ground along the route selected will necessitate the use of both.

A terminal station will probably be provided in Centre stroet, near the Brooklyn Bridge entrance, and the road will from thence continue underground in a curved line to the intersection of Elm and Pearl streets, crossing under private property.

Here it will emerge and continue on a viaduct of solid masonry across the intervening space into Marion street, as this portion of the route is but a few feet above tide level.

In Marion street it will again plunge beneath the aurface and pass under the intervening blocks of private property to Lafaystie Place, cutting under a corner of the block at aktor Place and Fourth avenue and along the avenue to forty-second.

It will be necessary to proceed beneath the New York and Harlem Surface Railroad Tunnel, and if connection is made with the Vanderblit system, under the Grand Central Station and switch yard to a point near the surrance of the scissing tunnel at Fifty-ninth street.

The cost of a road constructed as is suggested was determined in 1872, when Commodore Vanderblit projected a similar one, to be about $0,500,000. It is estimated that $12,000,000 to $13,000,000 will build and equip it to-day.

After the character of the road has been fixed on by the Commission, a corporation organized to operate the road, the period in which it is to be constructed designated, with the maximum rate of fare to be charged, thirty days is allowed in which to prepare articles of incorporation and open a stock subscription book.

These must not be less than twenty-five subscribers, and

All that has been done is to cut off the steam from the main that supplies the pipes at that corner.

General Manager Prentiss, of the steam company, said to an Evenina World reporter this morning that he thought Mr. Gilroy's report did the company a great injustice in making it responsible for the explosion last week.

'The drip which caused the leak was tied up by the Superintendent of the Mutual Gas Company, and he said it would be all right. There was no carelesuess on the part of our workmen shown in the testimony taken by the Committee.

'Then, too, the throwing on of dirt to put out the flames which was complained about, was done at the order of the Superintendent of the Consolidated Gas Company, who happened to be on hand soon after the gas was ignited. I think the gas companies were to blame.

'As for taking up our pipes and relaying them, we are perfectly willing to conform to the recommendations of Commissioner Gilroy in this respect. As they are now situated we find it almost impossible to get at them to make repairs, and we are making arrangeoments to change our system as soon as possible.

This last appointment met with opposition by Commissioner O'Brien, who thought that as there were teachers who had been longer in the service than Mr. Trand, some one of them should be given it the preference. A letter from Public Works Commissioner Thomas Gilroy was read in which he sarreed with a suggestion of the Commissioners that asphalt pavement should be laid on all school blocks, and promising to do what he could to have such pavement laid. Good News for Fat Men. At the Clearing Sale of Vogel Brothers

Annual Regatta To-Day.

Shamrock and Katrina Again Pitted in an Exciting Struggle.

INPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. I FORT HAMILTON, June 10. - The chances regatta to-day was anchored off the Atlantic Yacht Club house at Bay Ridge, and clouds of canvas almost obscured the Staten Island shores.

There was not a breath of air in that vicinity. It was what the sailor calls a straight up and down breeze.

The yachtsmen waited analously for the wind to show up from some quarter, but none appeared until 10 o'clock. Then by dint of sticking knives in the mast, scratching the boom and whistling, a little breeze came along from the northwest.

The yachtsmen did not wait to see whether it would last, for all hands immediately weighed anchor and set sail for the Narrows.
Although not numerous, the entries comprised the pick of the racing fleet around New York, and were as follows:

Edmund Blunt ... W. F. Barden CLASS 3 SLOOPS. H. P. Kingsland CLASS 3 SLOOPS. J. R. Maxwell 31 E.S. & H. D. Auchingloss 31 J. P. Karle 32 J. P. Earle CLASS 5-SLOOPS.

100 Ernest Stoples
43 G-SLOOPS.
CLASS G-SLOOPS. CLASS 7—SLOOPS. W. Buchanan Nirvana.... Liris (withdrawn

The course for the large yachts was from Buoy 15. In the Lower Bay, to Buoy 10, near the Southwest Spit; thence to the Sandy Hook Lightship, passing south of Buoys 8½ and 5. The course for the smaller yachts was the same, except that they rounded Scotland Lightship.

The following are the horses that different peters think should win on their ments: Referee, in the Sporting World, makes
